

The heart is the single most vital organ for sustaining life. The symbol of the heart represents love and devotion—to duty, to family and to community, which is the heart and soul of everything we do.

In ancient Greece, according to legend, Hippocrates taught young physicians under a sycamore tree. Our sycamore leaf represents the long humanistic, ethical and selfless tradition that is still at the heart and soul of the practice of medicine today.

The dolphin is a symbol of joy, and the waters dolphins inhabit are symbolic of the cosmic flow of life. The dolphin reminds us of the spiritual needs of the community and of each individual who enters our doors.

A universal symbol of peace, innocence and forgiveness, the dove in a hospital setting most often represents hope—hope for our patients and families, hope for positive outcomes, hope for our future.
